Bubbie’s Kitchen is a place where universal Jewish values are shared, holidays are experienced, foods are tasted, and we learn how mitzvot (good deeds) make our world a better place. Bubbie’s Kitchen is a welcoming place, and there’s room for all at Bubbie’s table. Bubbie’s Kitchen is a virtual cooking program for children and their families where the food, stories, and culture of the Jewish people come to life. Each session the children will learn about a new Jewish community through making their food, listening to music, and getting an overall taste of the diversity of the Jewish world. Ingredients for each session will be sent to parents in plenty of time to gather everything needed.

Parents, grandparents, and extended family are welcome and encouraged to join.

My name is Cyndi Rand. I am married and live in the Five Towns with my husband and five children, (who all love to cook!)

I am currently enrolled in an online Masters of Jewish Education.

I have taken culinary courses at ICE and Gullivers Learning Center (now known as Institute for Integrative Nutrition), as well as online culinary classes.

I have a background in the Theater Arts and performed in the last five Rachel’s Place Productions, as well as Ratzon/Malky Giniger

I am trained in REBT and CBT

I am fluent in English, Hebrew, and Spanish

I have been the Jewish Cultural and Experiential Educator at the Y of Washington Heights since 1999 and created many unique and innovative Jewish programming in addition to Bubbie’s Kitchen.

Bubbie’s Kitchen began in 2017 and pivoted to a virtual setting in March 2020. We are actively in 5 communities around the US, with 10 other communities on standby. I would like to see Bubbie’s Kitchen offered in every Jewish home.
